RE: Amazon Listing of Thomson Learning Teacher's Edition Textbook

Dear Mr. Smyres:

We recently closed your Amazon auction because your listing violates Amazon's Seller Participation Agreement, to which you agreed when you listed items for sale on Amazon's services.

Sales of teacher's edition textbooks violate Amazon's Seller Participation Agreement which prohibits the sale of promotional media, including books that "are produced and distributed for promotional use only." Your Amazon auction further violates the Seller Participation Agreement by misidentifying the goods that you are attempting to sell by listing the ISBN number of the Rumbos core textbook.

As you are undoubtedly aware, teacher's editions of textbooks are licensed for use by teachers and may not be copied, reproduced, sold or redistributed in any manner. We must protect against such improper sales not only because such sales impair the academic integrity of Thomson Learning products but also because such sales drive up the costs of textbooks for students.

This letter does not waive Thomson Learning's right to seek damages or any other remedies to which it might be entitled based on your actions to date, and this letter is not a full statement of the facts or of any claims or defenses Thomson Learning might have, all of which are expressly reserved.

Sincerely,

William A. Sampson
